A Look Back at Nicollet County Bank
by Bob Sandeen, Research Volunteer

This article begins with a reprint of the article about the bank that appeared in the October 1, 1930 issue of the St. Peter Herald. Additional information has been added at the end of the 1930 article.

The Nicollet County bank, founded 48 years ago by H. L. Stark and Ed. R. Moore, has the largest resources in Nicollet County. Originally planned and arranged for by Mr. Stark, then a grocer, the new institution envisaged a program of constructive service which has since remained its guiding star. Mr. Stark’s active connection with the bank has been outstanding, both because of the length of his service and the constructive leadership which he gave it as president for 47 years, until his retirement in Jan. 1930.

It was in 1882 that Mr. Stark conceived the idea of starting a new bank in St. Peter. Business firms and citizens urged him to start up a bank service, for he enjoyed an enviable reputation for integrity and square dealing, and often times came to the rescue of the impoverished settlers in the way of credit. Finally, he listened to their pleas and, with Ed. R. Moore, opened a private bank that year in a small wooden building where the Dick store now stands. They had a joint capital of $7,000.

From the start their venture prospered. Within six months they saw the need of more capital, and decided to incorporate as a state bank. This was done in 1882 with C. W. Babcock, E. R. Moore, Jul. Schleuder, Sr., and Mr. Stark as directors. Mr. Stark was president, Mr. Schleuder, vice-president, and Mr. Moore, cashier. The bank started with a capital of $25,000. Its first progressive step was to

Director’s Column

Most of you have seen businesses acknowledged in our newsletter in the past. They have thoughtfully and generously supported the Society through partnerships, donations, sponsorships, and memberships.

This year and next NCHS has placed increased importance in partnering with area businesses so we’re seeking their participation and collaboration. Visitors to our sites will recognize our business partners as a vital part of preserving our community history. Our business partners and members have an opportunity to increase their visibility within our communities and to link the name of their business with an important cultural presence in Nicollet County. Have program ideas? Display ideas? We’d love to talk with you about special presentations or programs wherever you are in the county.

We also encourage businesses to support the Society through membership. Business owners are well aware of the value of being known as a community builder. Each era is intertwined with what has come before, and, in turn, leaves a legacy for the future. Our community’s future depends on businesses like yours, supporting the work of organizations like ours. Membership with the Society also affords you many benefits including free or reduced admission to our sites and events, Society updates through our newsletter The Crossing, and much more.

Save the date for Open the Doors to History, a business membership open house on April 23, 2020, from 5 to 6:30 p.m. to learn more about how businesses can play a vital role in preserving community history.

If you’re interested in learning more now about how your business can become involved with the Nicollet County Historical Society, Jessica and Elaine are here to help. Give us a call at 507-934-2160 or e-mail membership@nchsmn.org. Thanks so much for your continued friendship and support!”

NCHS to Commemorate the 100th Anniversary of the 19th Amendment with New Displays!

A Century of Civic Engagement: The League of Women Voters
Minnesota

The Minnesota Legislature finally voted YES on September 8, 1919 to ratify the 19th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, granting women the right to vote and ending the 72-year struggle for woman suffrage.

But as distinguished Minnesota suffragist Clara Ueland said that day, "Today is the commencement rather than the end of our work." The League of Women Voters Minnesota was born, with Ms. Ueland as its first President, to help carry out the new work of empowering voters and defending democracy, with women now at the table – and in the voting booth. One hundred years later, LWV Minnesota continues to thrive as a nonprofit, nonpartisan organization promoting good government and civic engagement throughout Minnesota.

Beginning in April 2020, visit this vibrant exhibit that features Minnesota's suffrage story, highlighting the women who made it happen—and who continue to lead through the League of Women Voters to make democracy work for all.

Alongside the League of Women Voters Minnesota exhibit, NCHS will also host a new popup exhibition from the National Archives, Rightfully Hers, commemorating the 100th anniversary of the ratification of the 19th Amendment. Rightfully Hers contains simple messages exploring the history of the ratification of the 19th amendment, women's voting rights before and after the 19th, and its impact today. The exhibition is presented in part by the National Archives Foundation through the generous support of Unilever, Pivotal Ventures, Carl M. Freeman Foundation in honor of Virginia Allen Freeman, AARP, and Denise Gwyn Ferguson.

An example of the 12-banner exhibition provided to NCHS by the League of Women Voters Minnesota.
In early America, home funerals were the practice everywhere, and each community had a group of women who came in to help with the “laying out of the dead.” Visitation was held in the front parlor followed by a procession to the church and cemetery.

Until the mid-1800s most families cared for their own dead. They prepared, dressed and displayed their loved ones within the confines of their own home. Early American houses often did not have parlors, however as houses grew, and national manners became more set, proper families made sure they had front rooms filled with their finest possessions, quality furniture, portraits, sterling silver and often a piano. Because these rooms were usually clean, closed off, and quite formal, people often used them when someone died as a place to lay out the body and allow funeral visits. The body was usually displayed in a casket that was made or even purchased at the general store.

Most grander homes of the 19th century had a false, or “death door” placed off of the formal room, that led to the outside without steps to remove a deceased family member. It was considered improper to remove a body through the door the living crossed to enter, also, it was considered bad form to carry them out feet first. Later a grave was dug, in the family cemetery.

Since home parlors, have been largely replaced by funeral homes, the formal front room, or parlor has been turned into the modern family living room.

Caring for your own dead began to change dramatically during the Civil War. Soldiers were dying on the battlefield, and their families would want them sent home for burial. This is when the practice of embalming, for shipping bodies over a long distance, first began to take place. Dr. Auguste Renouard (1839–1912), a U.S. physician, was one of the early leaders in the field, laying the groundwork for present-day embalming methods.

During this time period, the family graveyard was moving towards the more park-like settings of the local cemetery. Also, the United States, established a number of national military cemeteries, where members of the armed forces were, and continue to be, buried.

Soon after came the undertakers, who undertook this duty for the families at a time of need. It was not long before this became the normal way for families to take care of their dead.

Over time, Undertakers become known as Morticians and Funeral Directors. In the beginning of the 1900s, the newly formed National Funeral Directors Association was pressing its members to consider themselves “professionals,” not tradesmen as the earlier coffin-makers had been.

Death of E. St. Julien Cox

A telegram was received here last Friday announcing the death of E. St. Julien Cox, which occurred at Los Angeles, Cal. The news was not unexpected for word came here from time to time announcing his serious illness and that he was suffering from cancer of the tongue. His letters to old friends here were even pathetic for he recognized that the end was not far away and he told of the pain and suffering which he endured. And yet when the news came it was a shock to his old-time friends who learned of his demise with sadness, for his death recalled the fact that another of the old pioneers had gone, and this time it was a pioneer who for years was one of the leading citizens of this section.

Judge Cox was so well known that even a brief biography is scarcely necessary. He was born in Philadelphia. The year of his birth was 1835, thus being 63 years of age at the time of his death. He was educated in the schools of Pennsylvania and was admitted to the bar before he had attained his majority. In 1851 he had moved Wisconsin and in 1857 came to St. Paul and from there to St. Peter the same year.

He had made this his home from that time up to a few years ago when he went to California, hoping to improve his shattered physical condition. He was a man of brilliant mental attainments and soon after his arrival at St. Peter he took a prominent place in the public affairs of Nicollet County and Minnesota.

When the war of rebellion was declared he was among the first to tender his services and he served with distinction. In the outbreak of the Sioux Indians he was one of the leaders of the defence and it was his arrival at the head of his troops that made the people of New Ulm feel that they were safe from attack from the Indians. He was a natural leader of men and those who followed him did it because he was loyal to those under him and treated them with that consideration which always wins hearts of men.

For years he was prominent in politics and was one of the democrats of the valley who succeeded. In 1873 he was elected to the house of representatives and two years later to the state senate and in both bodies served with distinction.

He was once candidate for Congress against H. B. Strait and even his opponents admitted his election. He was counted out, contested his seat at Washington but not permitted to occupy it.

In 1857 he was elected judge of the Ninth Judicial District by an unparalleled majority, his opponent being Alfred Wallin, now one of the justices of the Supreme Court of North Dakota. He served as judge for one term. After his term of Judge, he removed to Grand Forks where he practiced law for a few years and then located at St. Peter. After a few years here, his health began to break down and he left here for California where he resided up to the time of his death.

He was married in 1850 to Miss M. Mahew, of Oconomowoc, Wis. Mrs. Cox and six children survive him. During his residency of upwards of forty years in St. Peter he was not only a familiar figure in public affairs but was a friend and champion of the interests of St. Peter. He was a friend of the poor and oppressed and was a man who was known for his honesty and his integrity. Many here will feel that in his death they lost a personal friend.

The Anderson-Olson-Olsen Family Donation
Ruth Einstein, Research Coordinator

The NCHS Archives has recently accepted a donation of materials that offers an intimate portrait of the lives of the Carl and Emma Olson Anderson family of St. Peter. Emma’s family, including her parents and uncle, Andreas and Christine Olson and Matthias Olsen of Norseland, are also represented in the collection.

In 1880, Carl (Charley) Anderson immigrated to America from Sweden to join his brother, Salomon, who had paved the way to Nicollet County ten years previously. Carl met his future wife, Emma Olson, at the home of Salomon and his wife, Antoinetta Olson Anderson. Carl and Emma married in 1885, thus two Swedish Anderson brothers married two Norwegian Olsen sisters.

Carl and Emma farmed at the north end of St. Peter and raised five children, William, Emil, Alvin, Harry, and Mabel. Their peaceful life changed in 1915, when 22-year-old Harry fell and accidentally shot himself in the chest while hunting along Robarts Creek. Carl relates in his memoir that Emma was adamant that Harry be moved from St. Peter to the hospital in Mankato, though doctors warned that Harry’s condition was too precarious. Carl decided that Harry would not be transported despite Emma’s threat that if Carl refused, “everything [would be] over between us.”

Although Harry’s condition intermittently improved, a hemorrhage occurred two weeks after the accident. Doctors, including a physician called from the Mankato Clinic, were unable to staunch the bleeding and Harry died the next day.

Harry’s death and the disagreement regarding his care eroded Carl and Emma’s relationship and they eventually separated. The collection contains writings by Emma expressing the depth of her feelings for her son.

Carl’s memoir, 1860–1948, in addition to relaying his account of Harry’s accident and death, also relate his memories of his childhood in Sweden, his immigration to America, his marriage to Emma, and life in St. Peter.

Several other remembrances of the Anderson and Olson/Olsen families are found within these papers, including correspondence and taped interviews conducted at family reunions. Photographs of Anderson family members and a genealogy of the Olson family are among the materials that round out this remarkable collection.

Colton Kramer, Intern
My name is Colton Kramer and I am 20 years old and currently an intern here at the Treaty Site History Center. I am from Worthington, Minnesota originally and moved here to attend Minnesota State University, Mankato where I am studying History with a minor in Political Science. I am a big film enthusiast and a self-proclaimed critic with an emphasis on films ability to portray accurate, reliable history. History has always been a hobby of mine which I credit my father for. History has this power to give a sense of wonder to the land around us, whether that be a famous fort or a house in which a historical figure lived. Currently, in my internship here I am working at the main desk where I answer calls and help visitors with any questions or with the exhibits. I hope to gain historical experience and connections that will help me with my future career in history.

Mitchel Meyerhoff, Archives Intern
My name is Mitchel Meyerhoff. I hail from Winona Minnesota, but am currently a senior at Bethany Lutheran College in Mankato, graduating in the Spring of 2020. After graduation, I plan to continue my education towards an MLIS and hope to work in a college library or in a historical society in the future. I am an Intern under Ruth here at Nicollet County Historical Society for the Fall Semester, working on reorganizing the historical society collection of books to better serve members of the society and the general public. In my free time, I enjoy reading, freewriting, and hanging out with friends.

rent quarters in the Nicollet Hotel building, now occupied by Swenson’s electric shop, where they installed a “burglar-proof safe.” Those first years were a struggle for the institution.

In about one year, Mr. Moore decided to quit the business and Z. S. Gault was elected to his place as cashier, adding another leading character of the community to its forces. He continued actively as cashier until 1926 when he retired to private life. His death occurred this summer.

The bank was noted for its progressive tendencies. In 1887, its business had grown to such an extent that larger quarters were needed. It was decided to build. Rather than take money out of the banking business itself, Erickson, Stark and Gault used their private funds to erect the present building, then the show place of the town, and for the tourists of that time. Today the building stands as one of the best in the town, for it was built to endure. During the process of construction, the great fire swept through St. Peter wiping out many merchants, but the new structure came through unscathed. When the bank was able to handle the load, which owing to real estate involved, it took over the building. The banking room was remodeled and enlarged in recent years and now is a splendid improvement to the town. Here ends the 1930 article.

In the 1850s, St. Peter had a bank that was also named the Nicollet County Bank, but there were never any connections between that one and the bank that is the subject of this article. Initially, the private bank was located in the Gardner building, which was once on the site of 304 South Minnesota Avenue, the present location of Contents, and the location of the Dick store in 1930. Swenson’s electric shop, where the incorporated bank rented space, was listed as being at 124 South Minnesota Avenue when the 1930 article was written. The building now occupied by Erbert & Gerbert’s was constructed as the bank’s new home in 1886, not in 1887 as the 1930 article stated. The November 17, 1886 issue of the St. Peter Tribune stated that the bank’s new vault door had been installed, the tiling had started, and that “the building will probably be completed in a couple of weeks.” It has been described as being an example of the Eastlake/Queen Anne style of architecture. It should be noted that the “Great Fire” that was mentioned in the 1930 article happened in November of 1887, well after the bank was completed. The bank moved to its new building at 220 South Third Street in 1965.

Four generations of the Gault family have been key figures in the history of the Nicollet County Bank. Zuriel S. Gault served as the cashier for over 40 years. His son, Lorenzo J. Gault, served as the bank’s president, as did Zuriel’s grandson, Sam. The last president, also named Sam, is Zuriel’s great-grandson. His sister, Lisa, was the senior vice president.

This following is a Fall 2019 update from www.bankwithpioneer.com about the new owner and new president of the former Nicollet County Bank, now Pioneer Bank.

In August 2019 the Nicollet County Bank of St. Peter became the eighth location of Pioneer Bank. A merger with Nicollet County Bank was announced in February and the purchase was finalized on May 1, 2019. “We are thrilled to be a part of the St. Peter community and have enjoyed getting to know its residents,” said Nate Newhouse, President of Pioneer Bank. “We look forward to serving the community and providing value to our customers.”

Nate has over 19 years of banking experience and joined Pioneer Bank in 2017. Nate has experience in processing, operations, loan support and compliance, but the bulk of his background is in branch management, commercial and ag lending.

Nate is a graduate of Iowa Lakes Community College and Buena Vista University with a Bachelor of Arts degree in Business Management. He also attended Consumer Credit School, Commercial Lending School, Compliance School, Bank Leadership Institute and Iowa School of Banking. In addition, Nate is an alumnus of the Graduate School of Banking in Colorado. Nate volunteers for Feeding Our Communities Partners Backpack Food Program, Kiwanis Holiday Lights, South Central College and Habitat for Humanity.

In his spare time, Nate enjoys playing drums and percussion in various bands and productions, riding bike, pheasant hunting, and all things music-related, including attending live music performances. He also enjoys spending time with his wife, Macey, and three sons, Logan, Jasper, and Huck.
The 2019 season at Fort Ridgely was a wonderful one. It brought many visitors from different states and as far away as Japan. We also had unwanted guests in the form of gnats in the Spring that seemed to make hiking and a few events a little less fun. Regardless we had good turnouts for many of the events and loved getting to meet new people and visit with repeat visitors who stop every year.

Scott Kudelka’s program about the “Minnesota River” and “Wild About Wildlife” were both well attended this year. Scott does a great job of educating visitors of all ages and keeping things interesting. We appreciate all he does!

We are happy to say that next year we are going to be celebrating 150 years of the store with some new and some improved programs. The detour hasn’t stopped people from getting to us. I’m happy to say that the gift shop was also a favorite for our visitors, especially our local made items, and our toys, and candy.

I wish to thank my crew for all that they do to help me run the site, Robin, Glenn, Justin, and Donna, thank you.

Check the newsletter and website for our next year’s information.

We were busy this year, even with the detour. People did come, and we were busy. Our best-attended program took place on Labor Day with The West Arrives in West Newton with Lonesome Ron, even with the rainy program days. The Bees and Honey was the next best attended. We are always surprised at the turn out for our programs.

We are happy to say that next year we are going to be celebrating 150 years of the store with some new and some improved programs. The detour hasn’t stopped people from getting to us. I’m happy to say that the gift shop was also a favorite for our visitors, especially our local made items, and our toys, and candy.

I wish to thank my crew for all that they do to help me run the site, Robin, Glenn, Justin, and Donna, thank you.

Seasonal Events at the Cox House

Fall is finally here. The Eugene St. Julien Cox House committee is gearing up for the season with an immersive program, A House in Mourning. Join us at the Cox House on Saturday, October 26th, from 6 to 8 p.m. to experience a richly layered turn-of-the-century event. Guests to the home will find Mariah Cox and her remaining immediate family grieving over the loss of her beloved husband, Eugene St. Julien Cox. Mourners will be able to see the house styled to reflect the spirit of the occasion. Admission is $5.00 for non-members.

Christmas at the Cox House is scheduled for December 13, 14, and 15 this year. We’ll have an open house event on Friday, tours on Saturday, and new this year is a dedicated family day on Sunday. We hope you’ll join us for the festivities and maybe bring along a friend or two.

The committee is also busy planning for the 50th anniversary of the Cox House on the National Register of Historic Places happening next year. 2020 programming will have a focus on preservation with opportunities for the community to learn how to restore their homes with hands-on workshops. The committee is seeking bids for an upcoming landscaping project, a refresh of the Cox House exterior paint, and maintenance of the front porch.

The landscaping project will pay tribute to a traditional Victorian garden complete with heritage plants common to this area. You can help us make it an authentic heritage garden by donating plants for the upcoming project. Stay tuned! We will be sharing a list of much-needed plants to complete the Cox House garden.

“Shadows at the Crossing: Spirits of Old Traverse des Sioux” is a popular event for NCHS. First performed almost 20 years ago, the Traverse des Sioux personalities were resurrected again this year. Weather was not in our favor for 2019 but you will get another chance to learn from these historic characters again in the fall of 2020.

After many years of darkness our building’s name once again shines brightly as a beacon on the prairie.

Below: Visitors from across the area have visited the Treaty Site to see our newest exhibit North Mankato A Stroll Through 120 Years.
